Doctors will rule in biggest NHS revolution for 60 years: Billions given to GPs as trusts face axe

- Primary care trusts to be scrapped
- Family doctors given £80billion
- GPs will pay hospitals directly

Doctors will be given sole responsibility for patient care under plans for the biggest shake-up of the NHS in 60 years.

Around £80bn will be handed straight to family GPs, while the 150 strategic health authorities and primary care trusts who currently channel it will be drastically cut back.

The plans, to be published in a white paper next week, are a victory for Health Secretary Andrew Lansley who has lobbied to give taxpayers' money directly to doctors to reduce red tape and escalating costs.
